Attorneys for Non-Party,
 The Metropolitan Club Inc.

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
 FOR THE SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

THIRD CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST, OF NEW YORK CITY,	x
Plaintiff,	:
-against-	:
THE CITY OF NEW YORK and PATRICIA J. LANCASTER, in her official capacity as Commissioner of the New York City Department of Buildings.	CIVIL ACTION NO. 07-CV-10962 (DAB)
Defendant.	SUPPLEMENTAL AFFIDAVIT
STATE OF NEW YORK )	x
) ss:
COUNTY OF NEW YORK )

Anthony Nuttall, being duly sworn, deposes and says:

1. I am the General Manager of The Metropolitan Club (the "Club") located at 1 East 60th Street, New York, New York (the "Premises") and I am familiar with the facts herein. I submit this supplemental affidavit (i) in connection with the Court's directive on July 10, 2008 to have the Club submit proof that the Club hosted catered events for non-members prior to the enactment of the New York City Zoning Regulations in 1961, and (ii) in further support of the Club's motion, pursuant to Rule 45 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, for an order quashing a subpoena which was served upon the Club on or about March 6, 2008 by the Third Church of Christ, Scientist, of New York City (the "Church"), the plaintiff in the above-captioned action, on the grounds that the documents and information sought in the subpoena are not relevant and unduly burdensome.

2. The Club was built in the early 1890's specifically to be a social club by prominent New Yorkers. The Club was opened in 1894 as a private, members only not-for-profit social club, which provided members and their guests with facilities and services including kitchen and dining facilities, lounges, a library and sleeping accommodations. The Club provided a place for its members and guests to gather, socialize, play cards, read and to hold and participate in social events. The primary use of the Club as a social club has not changed since its inception in 1894.

3. In addition to providing amenities and services to its members and their guests, the Club has always been a venue for receptions, meetings and social events for a wide variety of social, cultural and political organizations. I believe that the Club has engaged in such activity since its inception, but it has certainly held catered events for various organizations prior to 1961. I have reviewed the minutes of a number of meetings of the Board of Governors of the Club which occurred in 1959 and 1960 for corroboration that such events took place. For example, annexed hereto as Exhibit A is a copy of the minutes of the Board of Governors meeting held on February 17, 1959, which indicates that Mr. James Campbell Burton, the Chairman of the Executive Committee, advised the Board of Governors that "his committee had approved the holding of a cocktail party in the West Lounge on Saturday, February 21st, under the auspices of the Guideposts For Children, Inc.”

4. Similarly, annexed hereto as Exhibit B, is a copy of the minutes of the Executive Committee which was held on March 17, 1959. The Executive Committee “approved the renting of the West Lounge and the Great Hall for a debutante’s cotillion to be held in November for approximately 250 guests, and sponsored by Mrs. Robert W. Cutler.”

5. The minutes of the Executive Committee meeting that was held on October 21, 1957 are annexed hereto as Exhibit C. These minutes state that Ambassador Braden told the committee that he had recently attended a dinner of the Americas Foundation held at the Metropolitan Club, which was also attended by some very prominent guests, and he thought that a function of this type held at the Club should be publicized since it might influence members and their wives to make greater use of the Club.” Moreover, a copy of the minutes of the meeting of the Executive Committee which was held on March 9, 1960 are annexed hereto as Exhibit D. The minutes state that “[t]he request of Haskins & Sells for the privilege of having a dinner for 140 persons in the Main Dining Room of the Club, reception in the West Lounge, and the use of the card room and billiard room after dinner on Thursday, May 26th, to be sponsored by our member Mr. Harry R. Ferris, was approved by the Committee.”

6. The use of the Club by outside organizations for specific events, through the sponsorship of members, has always been part of the operation of the Club. In connection therewith, I have annexed hereto as Exhibit E a copy of a brochure from 1960 with respect to the Club’s facilities.

7. The brochure describes the Club as "The perfect setting for your business and social events," and describes the seating capacities of the private dining rooms as well as the other services offered by the Club. It is likely that the brochure was provided only to members, with the intent that the members be aware that the facilities could be used for business events.

8. Further evidence that the Club hosted events for outside organizations and non-members prior to 1961 is contained in articles that appeared concurrently in the New York Times. Examples of various articles that appeared in the New York Times in 1959 and describe events held at the Club are annexed hereto as Exhibit F. These articles reflect the following:

(a) On or about February 12, 1959 a gala Bal Masque was held at the Club which was sponsored by the Guideposts for Children, Inc, a nonsectarian group which provided psychotherapeutic treatment for retarded pre-school children;

(b) On or about March 11, 1959, a luncheon of the motion picture industry section of the 1959 Red Cross campaign was held at the Club for 125 film industry leaders;

(c) On or about October 3, 1959, a luncheon was given for Premier Antonio Segni of Italy by the America-Italy Society at the Club;

(d) On or about October 13, 1959, the eighteenth annual dinner of the Americas Foundation was held at the Club; and

(e) On or about November 27, 1959, the first annual Doric Debutante Cotillion of the Women's Chapter of the American Institute of Architects was held at the Club.

9. Similarly, annexed hereto as Exhibit G is a copy of various articles that appeared in the New York Times throughout 1960 and which describe events that were held at the Club during 1960. The articles demonstrate the following:

(a) On or about March 16, 1960, a dinner was held at the Club in honor of Vice Admiral Thomas L. Combs under the auspices of the New York Council, Navy League of the United States;

(b) On or about May 27, 1960, a luncheon rally opening the motion picture industry's drive in the 1960 Red Cross fund campaign was held at the Club;

(c) On or about September 18, 1960, a luncheon was held at the Club by the New York State Association of Plaintiffs Trial Lawyers to pay tribute to Judge Charles S. Desmond at which about 500 persons were in attendance;

(d) On or about September 18, 1960 a reception was held at the Club to honor Justice Matthew J. Troy by the Oriel Society, a Catholic cultural organization;

(e) On or about September 18, 1960, Rear Admiral Giles C. Stedman was honored at a dinner at the Club which was sponsored by the Blue and Gray Club, an organization of alumni and friends of the Merchant Marine Academy;

(f) On or about September 28, 1960, the fiftieth anniversary reception of the American-Scandinavian Foundation was held at the Club;

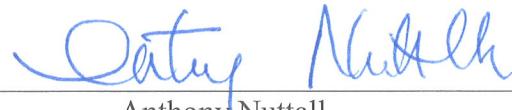

(g) On or about September 29, 1960 a reception was held at the Club for Prince Harald of Norway by the American-Scandinavian Foundation;

(h) On or about October 15, 1960, a reception in honor of King Frederik and Queen Ingrid of Denmark was held at the Club under the auspices of the American-Scandinavian Foundation; and

10. On or about November 16, 1960, a reception was held at the Club for Princesses Birgitta and Desiree of Sweden by the American-Scandinavian Foundation.

11. The minutes of the meetings of the Board of Governors of the Club, and the New York Times articles, set forth examples of catered events of catered events for non-members over the two year period of 1959 and 1960. There are further examples of meetings and social events held at the Club during 1959 and 1960 for various organizations as well as for years prior to 1959. The Club has always been a favored venue for social events and receptions in New York and hosting these events has always been a part of the operations of the Club. As far as I am aware, the Club has hosted such events continuously from 1960 to the present.

HILL, CHAIRMAN OF THE MEMBERSHIP COMMITTEE, BE ASKED TO SERVE ON A PUBLICITY COMMITTEE, TO BE ADVISED BY THE MANAGER OF ALL FUNCTIONS ATTENDED BY PROMINENT GUESTS, AND ASSIST IN THE PUBLIZING OF THEM. 4. A recommendation by the House Committee that a charge of $1.00 per person, per hour, be made for the use of the gymnasium was turned down by the Executive Committee.
5. Also turned down by the Committee was a recommendation by the House Committee that the members be asked to donate any unused equipment which they might have that could be used in the gymnasium.

After, discussion, the matter was referred to the House Committee for further study.

The meeting was regularly adjourned at five P. M.

GRUENTHER SAYS WEST IS STRONG

It Could More Than Hold Its Own in Test With Soviet,
He Tells Red Cross Unit

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, president of the American Red Cross, said yesterday that the free world would more than hold its own in any test of strength with the Soviet Union.

However, the former commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization said he thought that a "hot war" with the Soviet Union could be avoided. Speaking at a luncheon of the motion picture industry section of the 1959 Red Cross campaign, General Gruenther said:

"If we are able to keep in mind our religious civilization and human dignity, then we will more than hold our own in any 'cold war' test or any hot war, but I think we will be able to avoid that."

Of the Berlin crisis, General Gruenther told 125 film industry leaders who attended the luncheon in the Metropolitan Club, 1 East Sixtieth Street:

"To say we will remain firm is not enough. We are going to have to find a practical solution."

He declared that last year the greatest number of refugees in ten years had left East Germany for West Germany and that a large proportion of these were doctors and members of other professions. He suggested that one of the objectives of Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev of the Soviet Union was to prevent this exodus.

General Gruenther observed that the Soviet bloc was spending more than a billion dollars a year on cultural and information programs while the United States expenditures in this area came to only $100,000,000.

Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told the meeting that half of this country's armed forces were deployed abroad and that this situation was likely to continue. He said that "the Red Cross has been a terrific support to our services."

Spyros Skouras, president of the 20th Century-Fox Films Corporation and chairman of the Motion Picture Industry Group for the Red Cross Appeal, was host at the luncheon and presided.

Italian Premier Makes Bid for Foreign Investment in Talk at Luncheon

By PHILIP BENJAMIN

Premier Antonio Segni of Italy arrived in New York yesterday with a bid for increased foreign investment in his country.

The 68-year-old Premier flew here from Washington, where he had conferred with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.

Signor Segni went immediately to the United Nations after his arrival yesterday morning and talked with Dag Hammarskjold, Secretary General of the United Nations.

From the United Nations, the Italian Premier went to a luncheon in his honor at the Metropolitan Club, 1 East Sixtieth Street, given by the America-Italy Society.

There Signor Segni described some of the positive aspects of Italy's economic situation.

Industrial Gains Cited

"The country," he said, "has moved from a prevalently agricultural economy to a stage of growing industrialization. Whereas in 1938 agriculture accounted for 32 per cent of the national income and industry for 28 per cent, in 1958 these proportions were reversed; industry accounted for 34.3 per cent and agriculture for 23.5 per cent."

Signor Segni also noted that in the international money market the Italian lira was beginning to be considered a hard currency.

"Such it has proved to be after the adoption of convertibility," he said.

The Premier said that while exports to the United States had steadily increased, "our American imports still cost us twice our export gains."

Signor Segni emphasized that his country was "especially interested in foreign investment, particularly in those enterprises most apt to speed the process of industrialization."

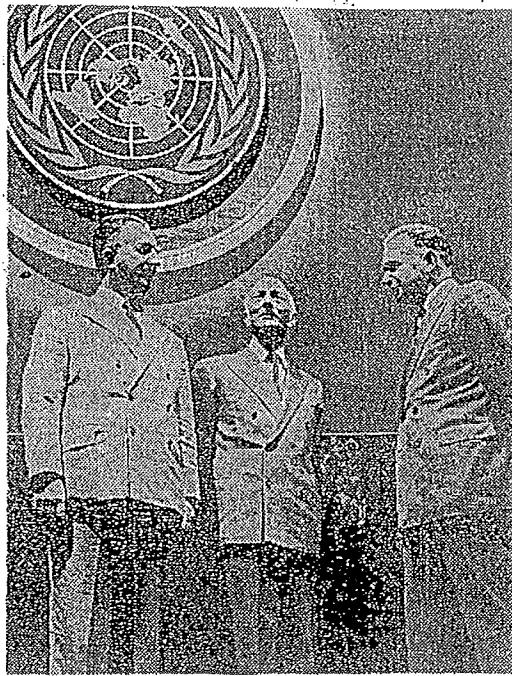

Signor Segni noted that his Government had passed legislation designed to interest foreign investment capital, and noted further that such investments had increased 300 per cent in three years.

About 300 persons attended the luncheon, Richard C. Patterson Jr., Commissioner of the Department of Commerce and Public Events, presented to the Premier a newly designed model of the key to City Hall.

Last night the Premier was guest of honor at a private dinner given by Egidio Ortona, Italy's delegate at the United Nations.

Today he will see some of New York's sights and will be guest of honor at a luncheon given by Henry R. Luce, the magazine publisher, and Mrs. Luce, former United States Ambassador to Italy.

After a dinner tonight at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, given by the Italian-American community of New York, Premier Segni will depart for Italy.

PUBLISHER ATTACKS ENVOY SELECTIONS

An American newspaper publisher charged last night that United States relations with Latin America were hampered by poor diplomatic appointments.

John S. Knight, publisher of Knight Newspapers, Inc., said that "too many of our Ambassadors receive their posts as political plums, too few of them either speak the language of the country to which they are assigned or know much of anything about its culture and traditions."

Mr. Knight spoke at the eighteenth annual dinner of the Americas Foundation, which was held at the Metropolitan Club, 1 East Sixtieth Street.

The foundation presented the publisher with its Americas Award for his work in behalf of inter-American friendship. The presentation was made by Gen. Pedro E. Aramburu, former Provisional President of Argentina, who was last year's award winner.

Mr. Knight said there was much room for improvement in diplomacy between North and South America. He urged that the State Department have an Under Secretary for Latin-American affairs.

Gruenthal Urges Offsetting Soviet

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenthal, president of the American National Red Cross, yesterday called for a better informed public to counter Soviet propaganda successes in underprivileged countries.

"The Communists are too frequently able to convince other people that they are interested in the masses and that we are the materialists," he said at the Metropolitan Club, 1 East Sixtieth Street.

He spoke at a luncheon rally opening the motion picture industry's drive in the 1960 Red Cross fund campaign.

General Gruenthal said he saw "little cause for depression" because of the failure of the summit conference in Paris since resolutions to the conflicts arising from the ideological struggle between the Soviet Union and this country would take years.

Asserting rather that he was "optimistic about the future," the general observed no essential change in the balance of power affecting the military, economic or political fields of both nations.

PRINCE HONORED HERE: Prince Harald of Norway holds a history of his country given him by Lithgow Osborne, center, president of American-Scandinavian Foundation. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, another guest at reception, reminisced with the Prince.

Prince Harald of Norway Meets An Old Friend, Mrs. Roosevelt

A strapping 23-year-old Norwegian royal visitor and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt yesterday renewed a friendship that began in World War II.

Mrs. Roosevelt and the visitor, Crown Prince Harald of Norway, had not seen each other since early in 1945, before King Olav V and Princess Martha returned to Oslo with their two daughters and the 8-year-old Prince, after an exile of almost five years.

They shook hands warmly yesterday at a reception given for Prince Harald at the Metropolitan Club by the American-Scandinavian Foundation. They swapped memories, but in this, the widow of the wartime President had the advantage; for the Prince's recollections were mainly about school days near Washington.

Governor Rockefeller welcomed the Prince as leader of a nation "whose love of liberty shines like ours." Prince Harald thanked Governor Rockefeller for his welcome and praised the foundation for its work. He reported that 5,000 persons had benefited from the foundation's scholarships and training programs.

Addressing 200 reception guests, Mrs. Roosevelt recalled the early days of World War II. She said she and President Roosevelt had known the Norwegian royal family very well and especially "a small boy, very small."

She said she had seen him once at the White House swimming pool and had remarked to his mother, the late Princess Martha, that Prince Harald looked blue. The Princess replied, "The waters of Norway are cold."

On another day at the stables at Hyde Park, Mrs. Roosevelt recalled, a state trooper was perturbed because "a small boy" was climbing a horse's leg.

The same small boy started to cry once when he was injured, she noted, until he was reminded by his mother, "Princes don't cry."

Among those at the reception were Miss Frances Willis, United States Ambassador to Norway and the Norwegian Ambassador, Paul Koht.

Prince Harald, who will remain here until Sunday, will visit the United Nations and meet Mayor and Mrs. Wagner at Gracie Mansion today.

*Red and White Tape
Swirls at Parade
Up Broadway*

By ANNA PETERSEN

King Frederik IX and Queen Ingrid of Denmark were welcomed to New York yesterday with a red-and-white ticker-tape parade up Broadway from Bowling Green to City Hall. As the air above the procession filled with a whirr of confetti and streamers in colors matching Danish flags that flew from doorways, the King smiled broadly to the noontime crowds lining the sidewalks.

The monarch, who is Europe's tallest and also by reputation its friendliest, drew cheers and applause from onlookers when he halted the parade shortly after it had begun. The Queen, who had been riding in the car behind him, moved up and sat beside him.

The police estimated the turnout at 250,000, which would make it the largest welcoming crowd since Britain's Queen Elizabeth II visited New York.

Flew Up From Capital

The royal couple had flown from Washington to La Guardia Airport earlier in the day to receive the honors of a city whose population far exceeds that of their entire country. The four-day visit here will wind up a tour of the United States that began on Oct. 4 in Los Angeles.

The King was dressed yesterday in the uniform of an admiral of the Danish Navy. The Queen wore a wine-colored costume and matching hat, with black osprey feathers.

They were met at the foot of the steps of City Hall by Mayor and Mrs. Wagner. The official party halted only briefly to sign the guest book and to hear military bands play "The Star-Spangled Banner" and "Kong Christian," the Danish national anthem.

Queen Ingrid was the guest of Mrs. Wagner at a luncheon in Gracie Mansion, where she received a gold link bracket bearing a key.

At a luncheon in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, the Mayor gave the King the medal of the City of New York and a scroll extolling him as a "friend of international peace with justice."

700 at Luncheon

The luncheon was attended by more than 700 city officials, business men and ranking officials of both the Danish and American Governments.

During the introductions of those on the dais, an extraordinary tribute was paid to Frederick H. Boland of Ireland, Richard C. Patterson Jr., Commissioner of Commerce and Public Events, presented him as "the courageous President" of the United Nations General Assembly. The luncheon party rose to its feet, applauded and cheered.

In response to the Mayor's toast to the King, the King called for a toast to President Eisenhower, adding, "God bless him on this day." It was the President's seventieth birthday.

In his speech, delivered in English, the King called for mutual efforts by Denmark and the United States in promoting the principles of freedom and strengthening "the Western community."

He paid tribute to the help given through the Marshall Plan in the post-war reconstruction in Europe and said that it had activated the development that Europe is now undergoing.

"Denmark is situated at a European crossroad," he said. "Both politically and geographically Denmark forms, so to speak, a bridge between the two European economic communities, the European Common Market and the European Free Trade Association, of which Denmark is a member."

He also noted that the Danish economy was in transition. He said his country, primarily agricultural, was now producing more industrially and offering investment opportunities for the West.

The Mayor described Denmark as "in many ways an ideal nation." He said it was exemplified in the quality of its exports and especially its crafts, which, he said, "show great pride and extreme care in design and execution."

A number of these products and contemporary crafts are included in an exhibition, "The Arts of Denmark," described as the largest display of Danish art ever to reach this country. The King and Queen formally opened the exhibition last night at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

The Overseas Press Club gave a reception for the King and Queen in the Waldorf-Astoria in the afternoon.

Today at 10:30 A. M., the King and Queen will visit the Hans Christian Andersen statue in Central Park, near Fifth Avenue and Seventy-fourth Street, and hear Victor Borge read one of Andersen's fairy tales. The Queen will go from the Waldorf-Astoria, where at 9:45 A. M. she will receive an award of the Save the Children Federation.

The American-Scandinavian

Foundation will give the monarchs a reception at 4 P. M. in the Metropolitan Club. They will be dinner guests of the Danish-American Society in the evening at the Waldorf-Astoria.
